CERTIFICATION PROCESS

In Order to be certified ARCTIC TESTED ALASKA TOUGH™ and permitted to use the designation, a completed application must be submitted to the Fairbanks Economic Development Corporation.

Separate Certification is required for each product line wishing to be designated as certified ARCTIC TESTED ALASKA TOUGH™. For automobile certification a separate “description of product(s)” must be completed for each automobile model meeting the certification requirements.

The certification fee for ACTIC TESTED ALASKA TOUGH™ is $250. Your certification includes up to 6 product lines, and Investor Status with the Fairbanks Economic Development Corporation. Investor Status with the FEDC must be renewed on a yearly basis. Yearly renewal of FEDC Investor status will maintain the certification for up to 5 years. After 5 years a renewal application must be filed for each product line wishing to continue use of the ARCTIC TESTED ALASKA TOUGH™ certification. For more information on FEDC Investor benefits please visit www.investfairbanks.com.

Parties requesting certification are responsible for providing the site where the product was tested, manufactured or produced.

Once the application for certification has been received the President of the Fairbanks Economic Development Corporation will make the determination and notify the requesting party in writing of the decision.

Once the process is complete the certified product line may use the ARCTIC TESTED ALASKA TOUGH™ certification in their marketing material, product packaging, presentations, etc.
